

Abstract Of The Disclosure

A method is described for advertising selected products to prospective purchasers in a retail establishment having at least one checkout terminal with a monitor viewable by said prospective customers. Advertising materials for products to be advertised are compiled as an electronic database that is displayed as screen savers on the monitor, or a plurality of monitors, when the monitors are otherwise inactive.